

- The main tasks of the Council of Young Scientists

- promoting the improvement of scientific, educational and educational activities of young scientists and specialists;
- involvement of young scientists and specialists in deeper study of natural, humanitarian, socio-political, art history and other sciences;
- stimulating young scientists and specialists to activate their activities by introducing new technologies and their own scientific research into educational institutions, the educational process and production;
- knowledge and skills of young intellectuals of the scientific and pedagogical sphere; development of the need to creatively apply their skills in scientific and social activities;
- assistance in ensuring social protection of young scientists, advanced training of scientific and scientific-pedagogical personnel;
- participation in the promotion of educational and scientific achievements, best practices, organization of scientific and pedagogical creative search of university students, students and students of secondary specialized educational institutions;
- participation in the scientific seminar;
- establishing contacts with foreign scientists.